Jimmy McEvoy

Vocals, Guitar, Irish Bouzouki

Jimmy was born and raised in Boston, Massachusetts and now lives with his family in Naples, Florida. The grandson of Irish immigrants, Jimmy first heard the music he loves as his grandmother played the button accordion and sang the old songs of Galway. He learned the guitar to satisfy his deep-rooted love for Irish tunes and songs. He states, "forty years ago I was listening to a friend playing the guitar and singing in a pub and decided that I too could do that."

Jimmy's musical resume includes touring with world class vocalist and button accordion player Gerry Forde, As a singer and guitarist with the folk/rock band Friends, founding member of the Naples based championship Irish band West of Galway, and numerous appearances in Florida, Massachusetts, New York, and Ontario as a solo act and accompanist
